H... HEY! ARE YOU ALRIGHT?!
MR. TADAKICHI'S VET ISN'T TOO FAR FROM HERE!
WE SHOULD TAKE HIM THERE!
OK!

WELL, CHIYO-CHAN! MY, HOW YOU'VE GROWN.

Ishihara Veterinary Clinic
Open daily
9:30 am-11:00 am
1:30 pm-7:00 pm
Closed Saturdays, Sundays, Thursdays, holidays

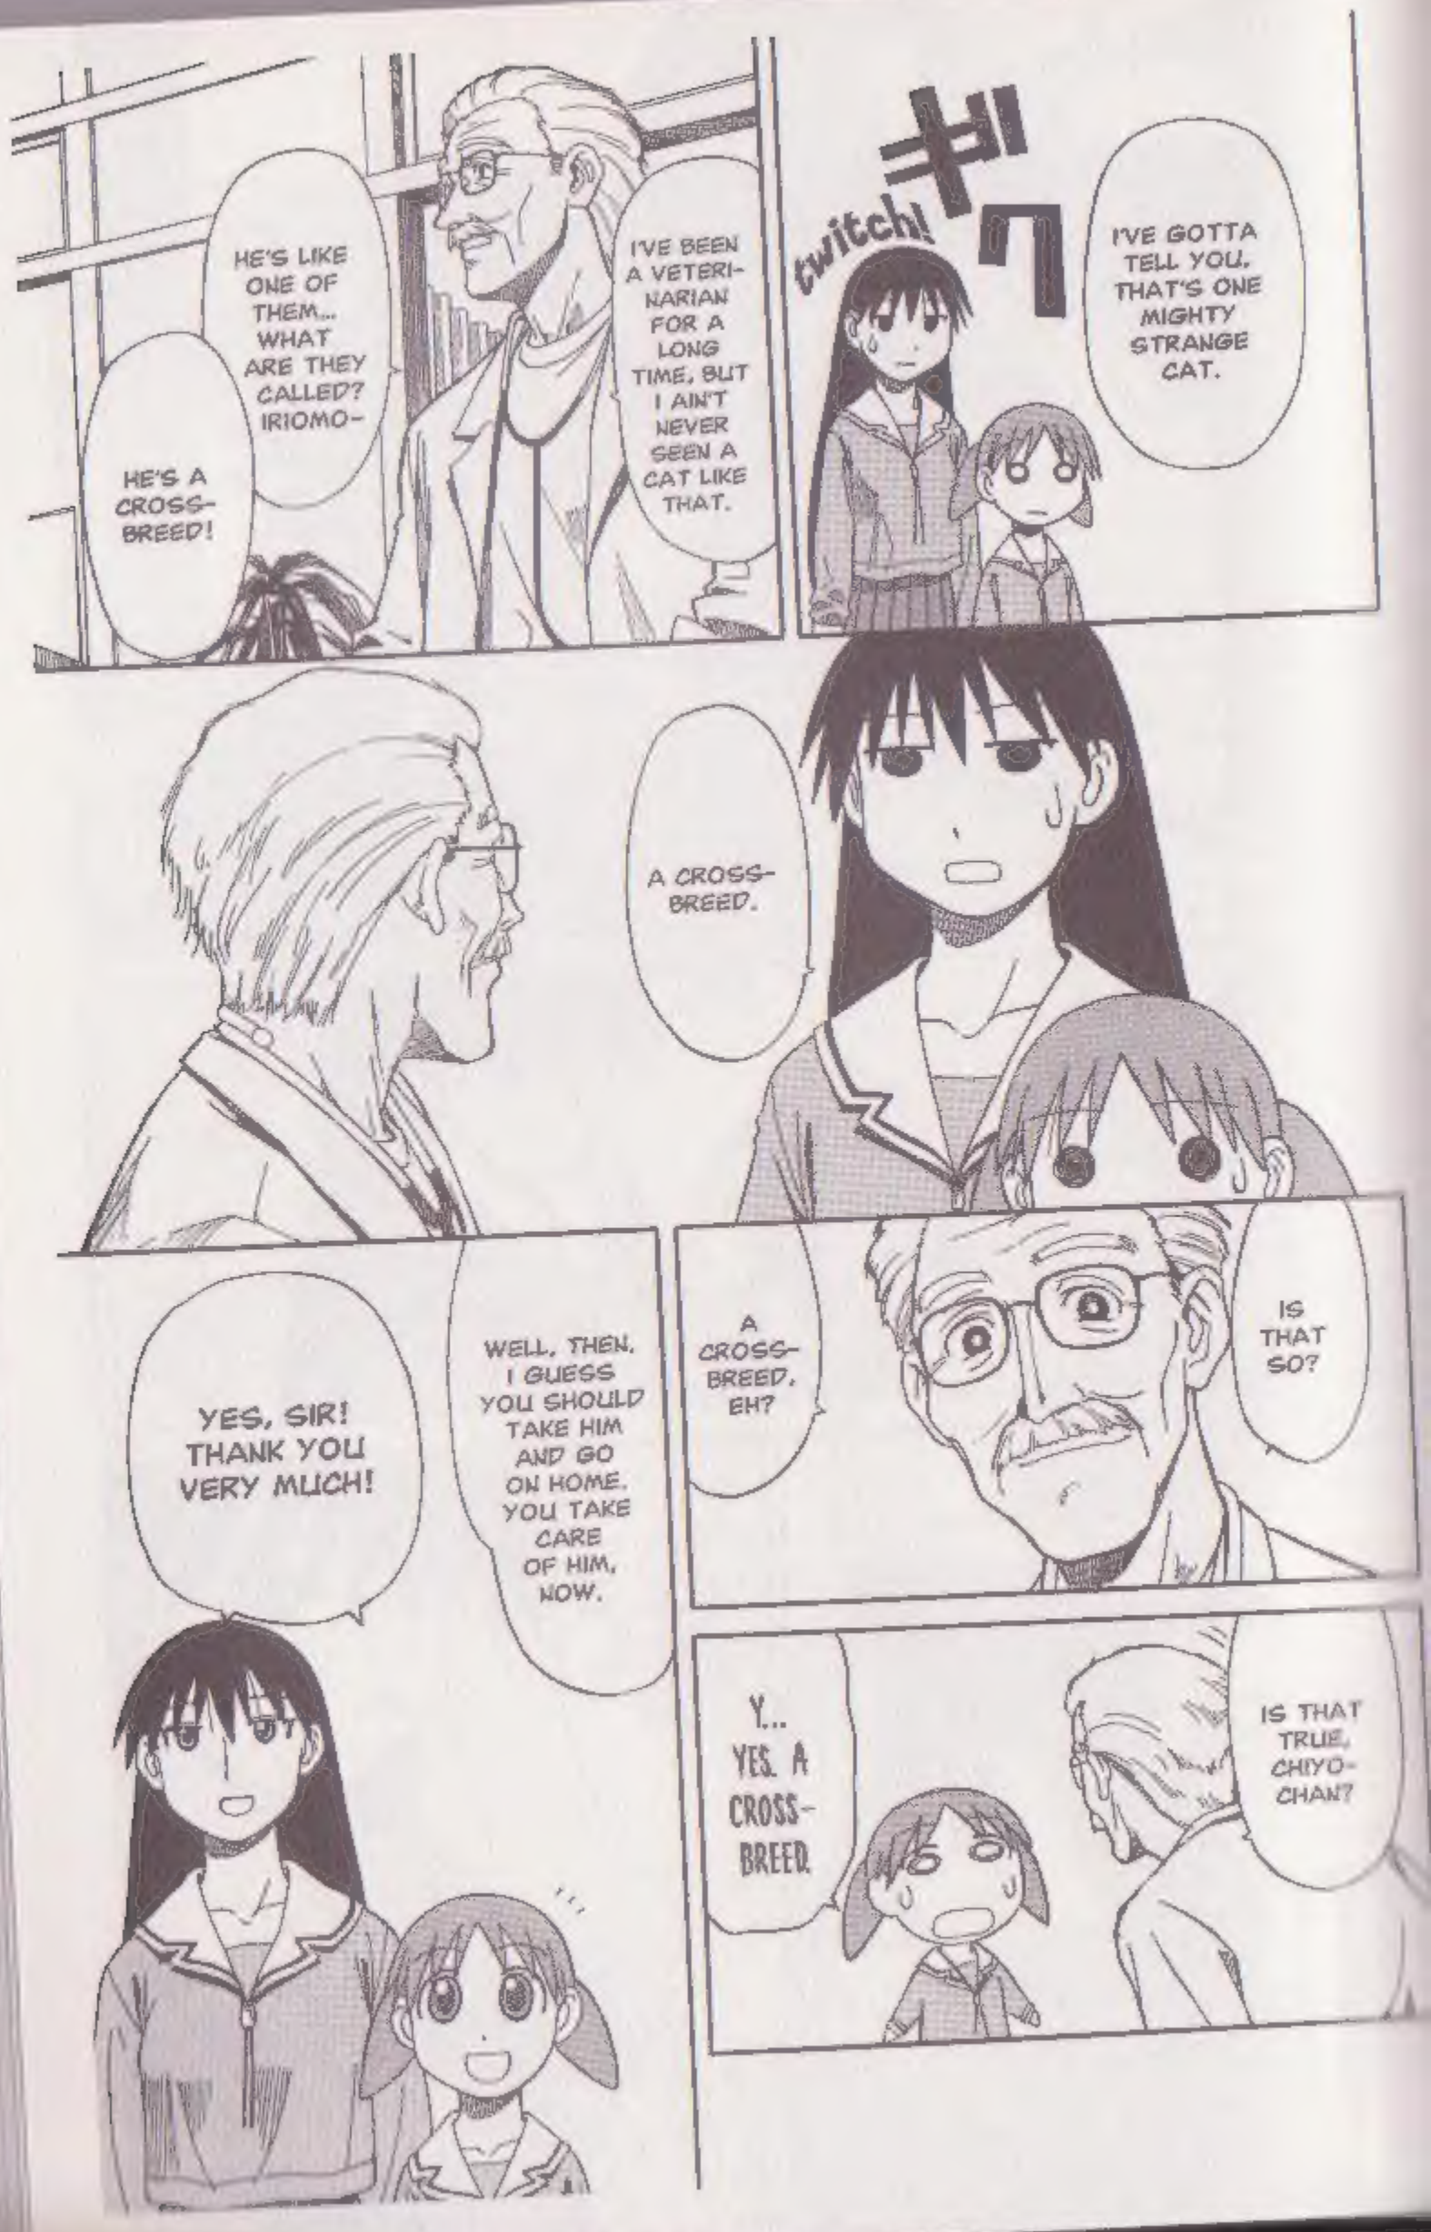
UH, UM! THANK YOU VERY MUCH!

YOU'LL BE PUSHING SIX FEET IN NO TIME!

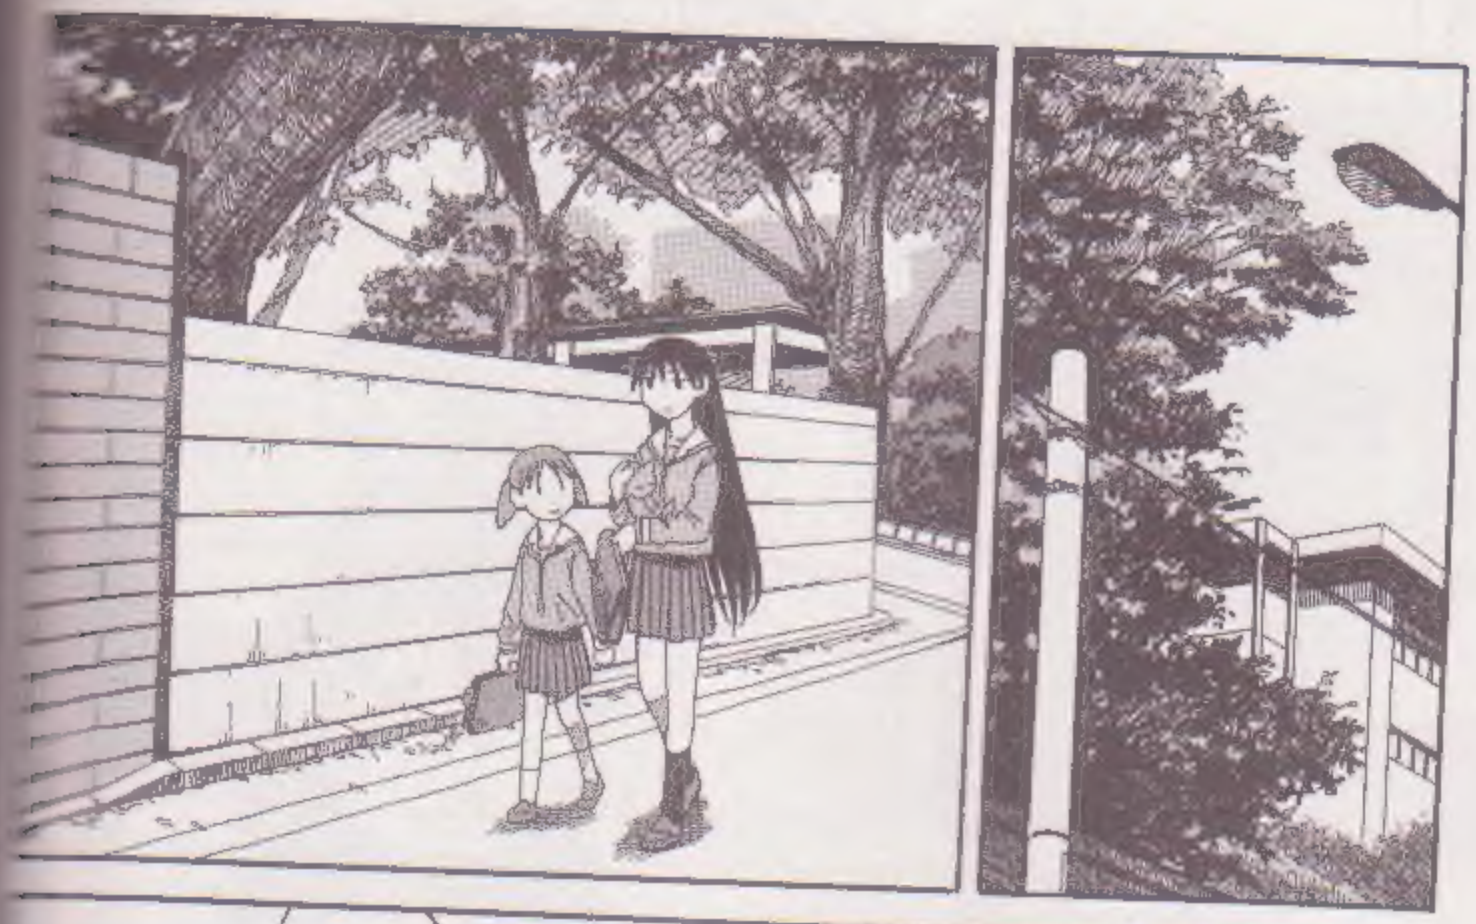
BUT MORE IMPORTANTLY, HOW'S THE CAT DOING?

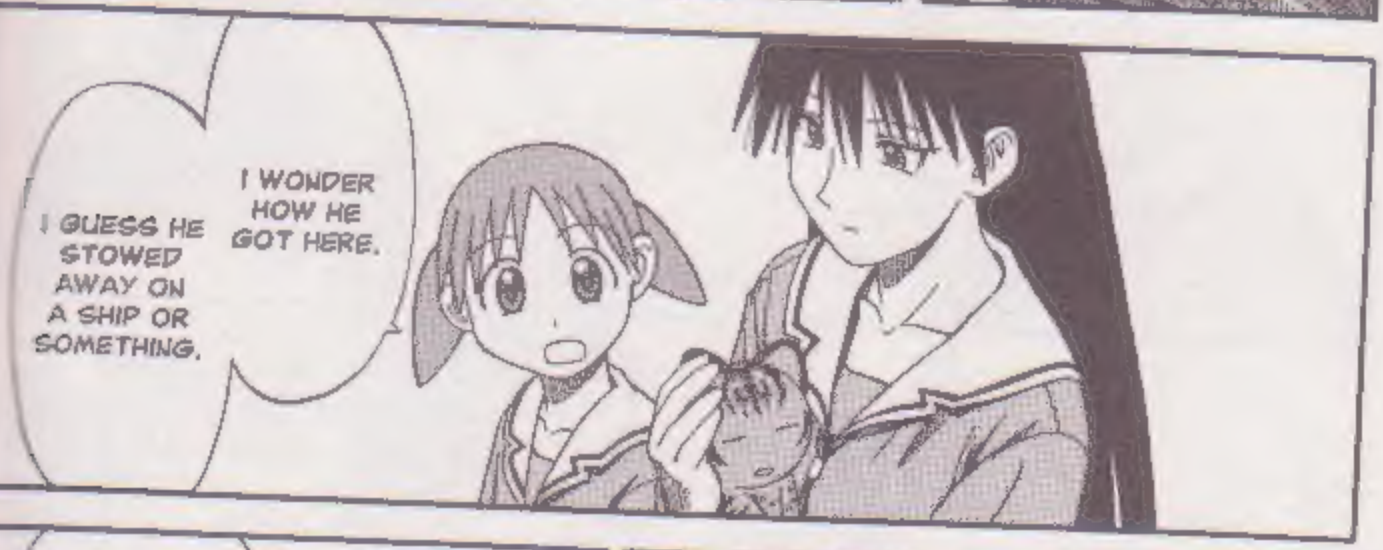
ほ
Aahh...

HE'S QUITE WEAK, BUT HE'LL BE ALRIGHT.



I'VE BEEN A VETERINARIAN FOR A LONG TIME, BUT I AIN'T NEVER SEEN A CAT LIKE THAT.
HE'S LIKE ONE OF THEM... WHAT ARE THEY CALLED? IRIOMO-
HE'S A CROSS-BREED!
twitch!
I'VE GOTTA TELL YOU, THAT'S ONE MIGHTY STRANGE CAT.
A CROSS-BREED.
A CROSS-BREED, EH?
IS THAT SO?
WELL, THEN, I GUESS YOU SHOULD TAKE HIM AND GO ON HOME. YOU TAKE CARE OF HIM, NOW.
YES, SIR! THANK YOU VERY MUCH!
Y... YES. A CROSS-BREED.
IS THAT TRUE, CHIYO-CHAN?





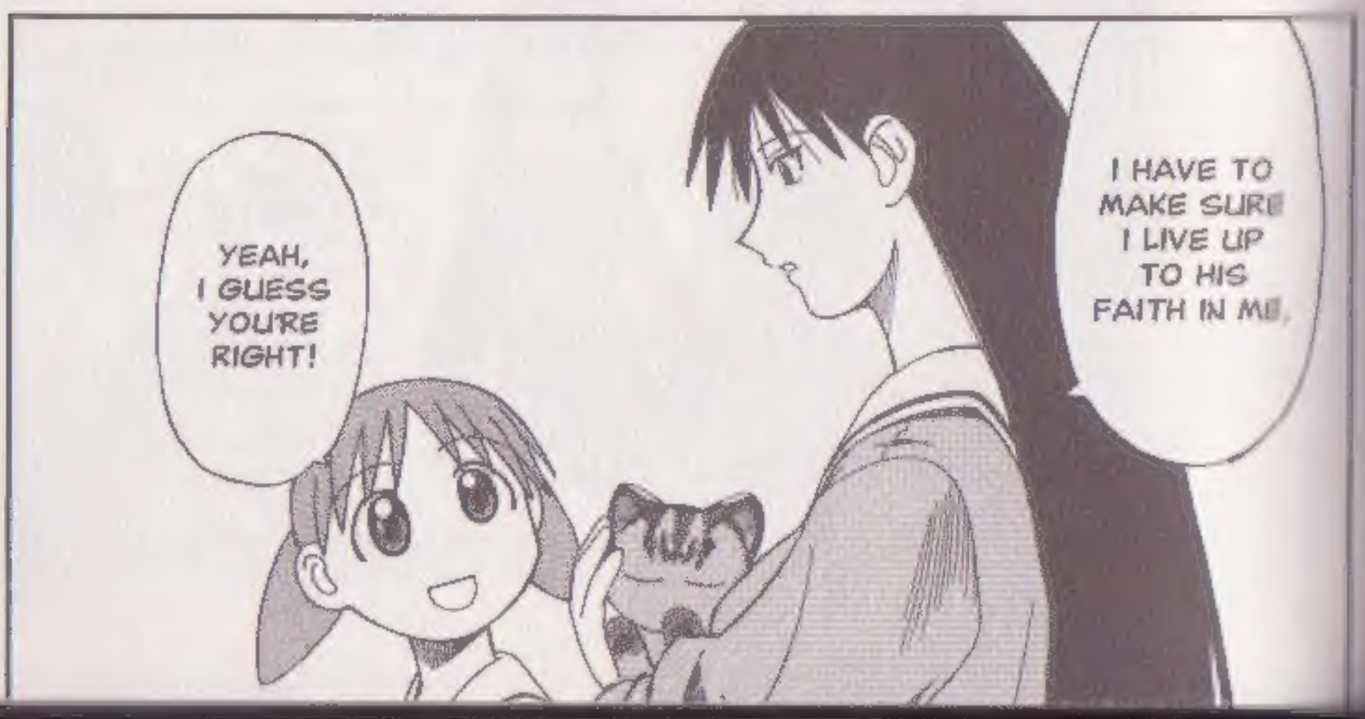
I WONDER HOW HE GOT HERE.
I GUESS HE STOWED AWAY ON A SHIP OR SOMETHING.

SO, WHAT ARE YOU GOING TO DO WITH HIM?
IT'S AMAZING THAT HE COULD FIND YOU AGAIN, HUH?

I DON'T KNOW WHAT I SHOULD DO.
BUT...

EVEN THOUGH IT MUST'VE BEEN REALLY, REALLY HARD FOR HIM.

YAMAMAYA BELIEVED IN ME...
ENOUGH TO RISK HIS LIFE TO COME AND FIND ME.



I HAVE TO MAKE SURE I LIVE UP TO HIS FAITH IN ME.
YEAH, I GUESS YOU'RE RIGHT!

I'VE GOT IT! WE CAN KEEP HIM AT MY PLACE UNTIL SPRING.

BUT SAKAKI, YOUR MOM_

I KNOW. WHAT SHOULD I DO?

_IS THAT GOING TO BE ALRIGHT?

SURE!

THEN, WHEN YOU'RE READY TO MOVE OUT ON YOUR OWN, YOU CAN COME AND GET HIM.

GOOD THING, HUH, YAMAMAYA?

HEY, YEAH- MAYA!

FROM NOW ON, HIS NAME IS MAYA!

I WONDER IF HE AND MR. TADAKICHI WILL GET ALONG.

HEY SAKAKI, WATCHA DOIN?
I KNOW YOU'RE ON THE INTERNET, BUT...
OH, YOU'RE ON THE INTERNET!
WELL THAT ANSWERS MY QUESTION!
WHAT ARE YOU TALKING ABOUT?
HM?

THEY'RE CALLED "AMAPIKARYA" OR "AMAMAYA."

OH, NO ONE OF THEM PIKA MEOW-MEOWS GOT KILLED...

Address Go

Iriomote Cat Dies In Automobile Accident

Last Monday at around 9:00 am a visitor to Iriomote by the name of Tobu Yasuda (age 31) discovered the body of an Iriomote Cat. The body was taken to the Iriomote Wildlife Preservation Center where it was determined that the Cat, an adult female, had been fatally injured as a result of being struck by an automobile.

The Iriomote Cat that died in the accident

WHAT IS IT?

I'VE HEARD THAT BEING HIT BY CARS IS ONE OF THEIR LEADING CAUSES OF DEATH

"BY AN AUTO-MOBILE?"

WHAT?!

I THINK THIS IS THAT MAMA CAT WE SAW ON THE ISLAND...

I CAN'T TELL IF IT'S HER OR NOT.
THE DAY AFTER OUR SENIOR TRIP..
WHEN DOES IT SAY SHE GOT HIT?
YEAH..
I HOPE IT'S NOT HER.. BUT IT'S STILL SAD..
POOR THING
あのこ…
DOING ALRIGHT..
I WONDER IF THAT LITTLE GUY'S
大丈夫かな

THEY DID? THEY HAD A REALLY BIG CAT LIVING HERE...

OH, THEY MOVED OUT!

HM? THERE'S NO NAME-PLATE...

HM. I GUESS THAT MEANS THERE'S A NEW BOSS.

YEAH...

UH-HUH HE WAS THE BOSS CAT OF THIS NEIGHBOR-HOOD

YEAH HE WAS A B.G STATELY CAT. HUH?

YOU MEAN MARU?

SAKAKI, HERE'S THAT CAT CATALOG I WAS TELLING YOU ABOUT.
HM?
WHOA, WHAT'S UP? YOU THINKIN' ABOUT GETTING A CAT?
NEKOMAGAZINE
NO, I CAN'T MY MOM IS NO GOOD WITH CATS
I'M JUST LOOKING
YOU MEAN SHE HATES 'EM?
NO, NOT HATES...
SHE'S JUST VERY ALLERGIC.

EVEN IF YOU COULD HAVE A CAT, IT'D NEVER LIKE YOU!

AAH, DON'T WORRY ABOUT IT!

ALLERGIC, HUH? THERE'S NOT MUCH YOU CAN DO ABOUT THAT...

I'LL GET MY OWN PLACE...

ONCE I GRADUATE AND GET INTO COLLEGE...

"BRIGHT..."

RIGHT?

YOU GOTTA LOOK ON THE BRIGHT SIDE!

AND I WILL GET A CAT! YEAH...

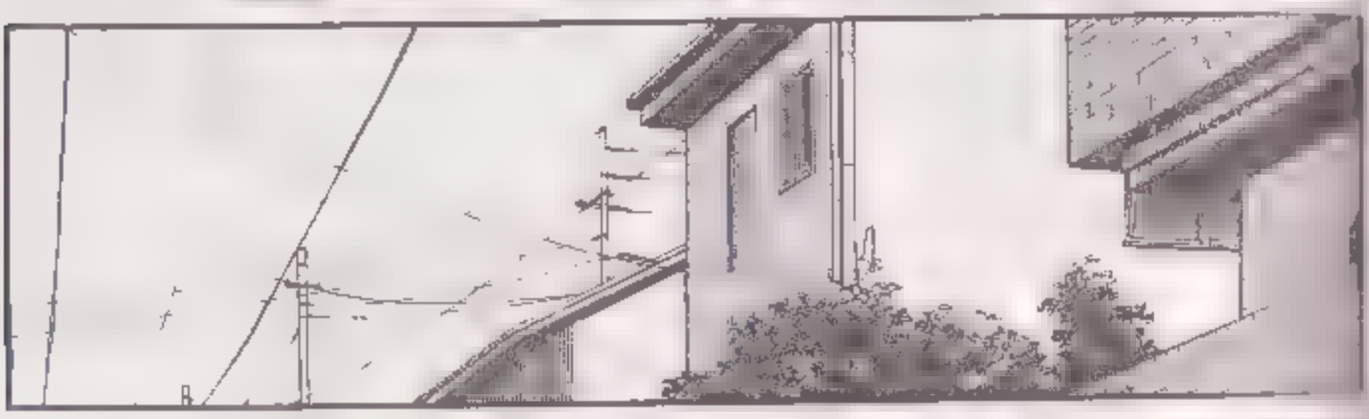
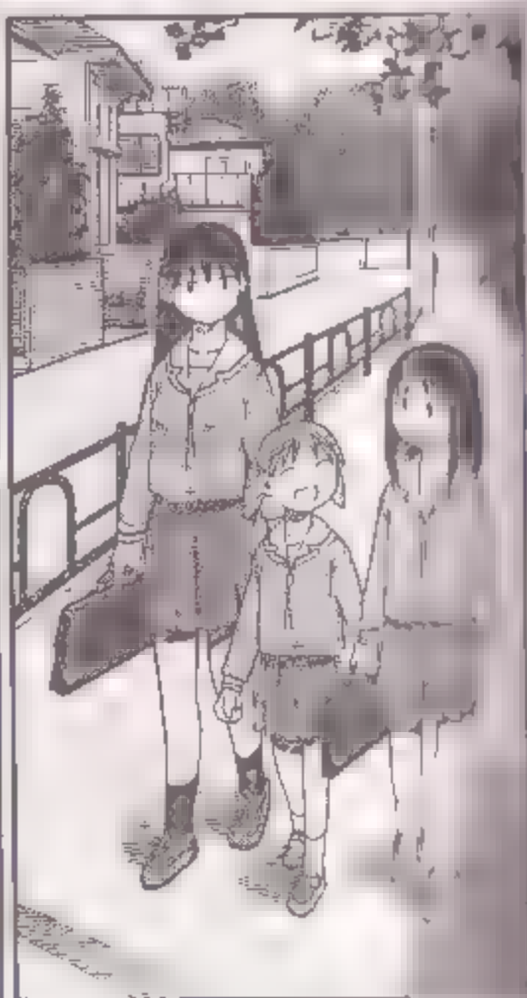
UH, SAKAKI? CATS HATE YOU.
MM. THAT IS A PROBLEM...
HOW COULD YOU KEEP ONE?
COME ON, SAKAKI! THINK POSITIVE!



WELL, WHAT'S GONNA HAPPEN TO MR TADAKICHI?
UH-HUH!
BUT CHIYO-CHAN, YER GOING TO COLLEGE IN AMERICA, RIGHT?



REALLY? AAH, THAT'S GOOD.
HE SAID HE WOULDN'T MIND IF MR TADAKICHI CAME ALONG, TOO
I THINK ONE OF OUR FRIENDS IN THE U.S. IS GONNA LET ME STAY WITH HIM.

AAH...

YOU'LL ALL BE LIKE, "HEY, WHICH ONE OF US IS THE FOREIGNER HERE?"

GOIN TOGETHER TO AMERICA!

AND CHIYO-CHAN FROM JAPAN...

HEY, IT'LL BE MR. TADAKICHI THE FRENCHMAN

A CAT.

OH!

YEAH...

BUT IT'D BE GREAT IF YOU COULD FIND A CAT THAT'D LIVE WITH YOU, HUH?

I'VE BEEN THINKING THIS FOR A WHILE NOW...
BUT NONE OF YOU ARE LIVING UP TO YOUR FULL POTENTIAL!
OH. YOU THINK SO?
HEY, I'M BEING SERIOUS HERE!
IF I HAD SAKAKI'S ATHLETIC SKILLS...
AND CHIYO-CHAN'S BRAIN, I'D-

I'LL TELL YA WHAT I'D DO!!

SO... IF YOU HAD ALL THOSE ABILITIES, WHAT WOULD YOU DO?

WHOA! TALK ABOUT YOUR UNWANTED POWERS!

AND YOU CAN HAVE MY POWER TO NEVER BE ON TIME... AND TO FORGET STUFF.

IF ANYONE HERE'S GOT NO ABILITIES, IT'S YOU, TOMO!

UM... UH...
up!
YOU'RE NO GOOD AT SPORTS. YOU'RE NO GOOD AT STUDYING. YOU'RE NOTHIN'!

WELL, MY DAD ALWAYS SAYS, "TOMO, YOU'RE REAL GOOD AT POUNDIN' MY BACK."

HEY! DON'T SOUND LIKE YOU'RE FEELIN' SORRY FOR ME!
OH. WELL, THAT'S GOOD. I'M GLAD.

YOU DIDN'T TAKE MY ABILITIES INTO ACCOUNT!
WAIT UP THERE, PLUCKY!

WHAT?! OF COURSE I DO! MY PHYSICAL PROWESS IS—THAT'S CUZ YOU DON'T HAVE ANY.

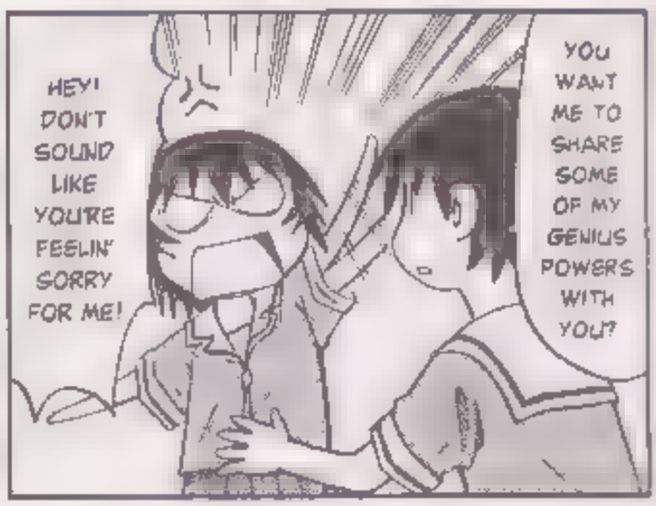
URK!
I ALREADY GOT THAT FROM SAKAI! I DON'T NEED YOURS.



HEY! DON'T SOUND LIKE YOU'RE FEELIN' SORRY FOR ME!
YOU WANT ME TO SHARE SOME OF MY GENIUS POWERS WITH YOU?

FINE, NOW LET ME DO YOU.
UH, THAT'S ALRIGHT...

TRANSLATOR'S NOTES

Azumanga Daioh Vol 04

PG 27

(1) Shuri Castle

Shuri, the former capital of Okinawa, is located just a few miles from the island's current capital of Naha. Shuri Castle is the largest of Okinawa's castles, and an important landmark/tourist attraction.

For more, see the homepage of the Okinawa Prefectural Government at www.wonder-okinawa.jp/001/index-e.html

(2) Shurei Gate

This is the main gate of Shuri Castle. The inscription reads Shurei no kuni, or "land or propriety."

For more, see the homepage of the Okinawa Prefectural Government at www.wonder-okinawa.jp/001/001-e/002_03.html

(3) A 2,000 yen note

This note was first unveiled in 2000, to some mixed feedback from consumers (who complained that the new denomination made things too complicated). The note, which features a depiction of Shureimon, was heavily promoted as a tie-in to the G8 summit held in Okinawa the following year.

(4) Shisa

Originally brought over from China, the shisa are a kind of mythological lion believed to ward off evil spirits. Plaster shisa are a staple of Okinawan architecture, and are often found on the gates and roofs of civilian houses.

For a collection of shisa photographs, see the homepage of the Okinawa Prefectural Government at www.wonderokinawa.jp/011/english/meet/visit/mv03/mv03.html

(5) Shiisaa yaibiimi?

Chiyo-chan was correct—in Okinawan, Shiisaa yaibiimi? means "Is this a shisa?" Her reply means "Yes, it is a shisa."

PG 12

Fuhgeddaboutit

So far we've been using "Fuhgeddaboutit" to render nandeyanen (Literally, "Why?") because not only does it have comedic and belittling overtones, it is also instantly recognizable as dialectical. In this strip, Osaka was actually using chau nen ("nope" or "wrong"), another dialectical phrase that can be delivered to comic effect. Rather than go with something like "Nossiree" (which would have failed to capture the dialectical flavor the strip hinged on), I again used "fuhgeddaboutit."

Student ID

PG 18

The Japanese seito techo is actually a combination ID and handbook.

PG 21

(1) I've never been on a school trip before!

In Japan, the shugaku ryoko ("school trip") is only for students in their senior year—hence Yomi's somewhat flustered reaction.

(2) Señora

In the Japanese, Tomo actually used señor, the male form.

Time to get up

PG 24

The phrase Tomo used was okina ua... which, obviously, is a pun on Okinawa, the destination of their school trip.

Haisai

PG 28

Until it was annexed by Japan in 1879, Okinawa was a separate nation with its own distinct language. Today that language survives in two forms—as uchinaaguchi, the complete (if increasingly less spoken) language, and as "standard" Japanese that has been influenced by that language. As Osaka pointed out, haisai is the Okinawan equivalent of "Hello" or "Good afternoon."

PG. 114 Nishihyo Island

Normally, the characters making up the place name Iriomote would be read as nishi and hyo—hence Kagura's confusion.

PG. 122 Letters in the alphabet

This riddle (and the many to follow) are dependent upon language-specific puns to make them work. In all but one case the joke is lost when translated, requiring the substitution of suitable English-language alternatives.

Originally, this brain teaser went, "What is the fruit of summer?" Chiyo-chan sensibly replied "Watermelon," but Tomo countered that it was actually persimmon. The reason: kaki ("persimmon") is a homonym for the word meaning "the summer season."

Birthday / Birth day

PG. 123 In a similar bit of punnery, Tomo asked "What kind of person does nothing but smash cars?" Chiyo-chan responded "A wrecker," to which Tomo declared the answer to be a dentist. When Chiyo-chan protested, Tomo enunciated the words a little differently to get the pun across. While the first time she'd said ha'isha-san ("dentist"), the second time she said hai'sha ("scrapyard"). Adding -san to the end of hai'sha gives us, "a person who works in a scrapyard."

(1) Two apples

PG. 124 The original joke went, "What bird doesn't get along well with policemen?" Osaka's (correct) answer was sagi, which means "heron" but is also a homonym for "fraud."

(2) Mt. Everest

The trick here is that even before its discovery, Mt. Everest was (and still is) the world's tallest mountain. The original Japanese has a similar trick to it—"If nihongo ('Japanese') is the language of Japan, then eigo ('English') is the language of what country?" The answer may surprise you. Kotoba, the word used in the riddle to mean "language," can also mean "word." Thus, the riddle is really asking, "If the word nihongo is Japanese, from what country is the word eigo?" Because eigo is a Japanese word, the answer is "Japan."

PG. 69 Where's the cup?

This type of vending machine, which most often seems to crop up in bus stations and movie theaters, first dispenses a paper cup, some ice (if applicable) and then the drink itself.

PG. 05 (1) Ichiro and Sasaki

This is a reference to Ichiro Suzuki and Kazuhiro Sasaki, two Japanese baseball players who transferred overseas to join the Seattle Mariners.

(2) You'll get killed

While civilian possession of firearms is illegal in Japan, the fact that they're so accessible in America has helped fuel the belief that if you go to America, there's a good chance you'll get shot.

PG. 08 Now I'm the king of the swingers...

In the original Japanese, Tomo remarked that what Yomi sung was "The Jaian Song." Jaian is a recurring character on the long-running manga/anime Doraemon, and his song is filled with such lyrics as "I'm the boss of all the kids/ I am without rival." As such, King Louie's song from The Jungle Book seemed the best match for an easily-recognizable reference.

PG. 70 Tight little gym shorts

Also known as bloomers, these shorts are worn from elementary school all the way up through high school. The fact that they're required to be worn for so long (and leave so little to the imagination) is cause enough for Yomi's reaction… as well as Mr. Kimura's.

PG. 77 Chihuahua

In the original Japanese, Chihuahua is "Chiyosuke," a made-up word that takes Chiyo's name and tacks on a male suffix. It has a rather diminutive feel to it—hence Chihuahua.

PG. 79 Criminals!

Fueiho, the original title of this strip, is an abbreviation for the Japanese Amusement Businesses Control and Improvement Law. "Amusement Business" in this case refers to the red light district, including (but not limited to) the sex-for-pay industry. When Tomo saw the two teachers in schoolgirl uniforms, she immediately (whether jokingly or not) accused them of dressing up for the "benefit" of their clients.

PG. 20 (1) Island Getaway

Okinawa is just one island in the Ryukyu chain. There are several others, including Miyako Island (renowned for its crystal blue waters and white sand beaches) and Iriomote Island, where some 90% of the landmass is still unspoiled forest. Iriomote is also home to several unique species of animal, including the rare Iriomote Yamaneko ("Iriomote Cat"), which was only discovered in 1964.

(2) UMIN CHU

Kaorin and Mr. Kimura's T-shirt bears the characters for "sea" and "person," a combination that in Okinawan is pronounced uminchu and means "fisherman."

PG. 28 MEOWvelous!

In Japanese, nanto is used to lend a sense of marvel or incredulity. The word appearing in the comic is nyanto, a pun which incorporates nya, the sound of a cat meowing (note the little cat paw). "Meowvelous" was my attempt to capture this joke. I await the bricks to come smashing through my bedroom window.

PG. 29 Arauchigawa and Maryudo Falls

Both Arauchigawa and Maryudo Falls are located on Iriomote Island. According to legend, a giant alligator lives in Maryudo Falls, and will attack anyone who pollutes its waters.

PG. 41 It's watermelon-splitting time!

As we've seen previously, putting on a blindfold and attempting to split a watermelon with a bat is a traditional beachside game in Japan.

PG. 42 Ukon-cha

Turmeric tea. In Okinawa, it's referred to as "the king of health teas."

PG. 44 Thank you

The reason for Kaorin's blushing and use of polite language is (as shown in earlier volumes) she has a mad crush on Sakaki.

PG. 52 Radio exercises

Called rajio taiso in Japanese, this (along with its television equivalent) is a program of low-impact exercises designed for the elderly, with the aim of improving circulation and promoting overall health.

PG. 28 (1) Aree, shiisaa aibiran!

As you've probably guessed, Aree, shiisaa aibiran! means "That's not a shisa!"

(2) Osenmikocha

Located on the second floor of Shuri castle, the osenmikocha is a prayer room dedicated to the fire god. For some reason, Osaka found the name of this room to be the height of hilarity.

PG. 90 Champuru

Arguably the most representative of Okinawan dishes, champuru is a kind of stir-fry that mixes a variety of vegetables, meat and/or tofu. The name of the champuru dish varies, depending upon the main ingredient—goya is bittermelon, fu is a kind of wheat-gluten bread and somin are noodles.

PG. 91 (1) Manzamo

A wide plain in northern Okinawa with a sheer cliff face.

(2) Davy Jones' Locker

The Japanese title of this strip was umi no mokuzu, a somewhat poetic-sounding phrase literally meaning "the ocean's seaweed," but referring to drowning. As such, Davy Jones' Locker, an antiquated expression used by sailors to refer to the bottom of the ocean, seemed an appropriate match.

PG. 92 The fruit of the sea

The joke of this strip is that all the fish that Tomo, Miss Yukari and Kagura want to "see" are in fact fish they'd like to eat. Osaka one-ups them all by saying she'd like to see ikura (salmon roe).

PG. 94 Chinsuko

A traditional Okinawan sweet, chinsuko is a kind of sugary biscuit in a variety of flavors, such as goya, pineapple and yam.

PG. 96 (1) Sata andagi

The traditional style of Okinawan donut, sata andagi are deep-fried "donut holes" made from flour, vanilla and sugar.

(2) 100 yen

About 90 cents.

Cake

More precisely mille-feuilie cake, which is made up of flaky, pastry-like layers, separated by cream custard. It is sometimes topped with fruit.

"I wish I were a bird"

This is a reference to a famous commercial for NOVA, a chain of for-profit English-language schools. In the commercial, a young Japanese girl whose father is a high-school English teacher fixates on a phrase from one of her father's classes. Spreading her arms, the girl cries "I wish I were a bird!"

(1) Former Prime Minister Mori

Yoshiro Mori had a brief stint as Prime Minister following the sudden death of his predecessor, Keizo Obuchi. The spectacularly unpopular Mori served just a single year before resigning his position… and come to think of it, he does resemble Chiyo-chan's dad somewhat.

(2) When the cat's away, the mice will play

Originally, Chiyo-chan's "dad" said, " You're a real cat, huh? Well, I have a sensitive tongue and can't eat hot food. How about you?" to which Osaka piped up, "I have a sensitive tongue, too!" The pun here is that the word for sensitive to hot foods is neko-jita, which literally means "cat's tongue." Unfortunately, this concept doesn't exist in English, and a substitute was required.

Tokyo U

Often called "Japan's Harvard," Tokyo University is the top school in Japan.

If we look back on this time…

This is the first verse of "Aogeba Totoshi," a song traditionally performed by the students at graduation. As the language is somewhat archaic, please pardon the rather dry-sounding translation.

(3) The truck

Mercifully, this joke works as-is when translated into English.

Drip, drip

Osaka is referencing the commercial for a skincare product called Domohorn Wrinkle. In the commercial, an elderly woman stares at the steady drip, drip of the product into an awaiting container, while the narrator states, "Domohorn Wrinkle can't be mass produced, because it's made just one drop at a time."

WHOA!

If you've ever spent any time using the pull-apart waribashi chopsticks seen on this page, you'll know your chances are about 50-50 that they'll separate the way they're supposed to—hence everyone's stunned reaction.

This is fun

Osaka and Chiyo-chan are performing a ritual for good luck. You're only supposed to ring the bell (that's what they're pulling on the rope for) a couple of times, but Osaka shows no signs of stopping. In her defense, it does have a funky, vaguely cowbell-like sound to it…

Omikuji

The omikuji is a kind of lottery where fortunes for the upcoming year are drawn at random. Each fortune has a "rank," which ranges from "extremely fortunate" to "beware." Incidentally, Tomo's "ill-fated" (kyo) rank is the second-to-lowest.

Gimme some change!

What Tomo was after was otoshidama, the New Years' "allowance" typically received up through one's late teens. Apparently she's already forgotten the conversation she had with Chiyo-chan regarding otoshidama (see Azumanga Daioh vol. 2)
